

Senator Wicks Surveys Legislature For Rotary

Senator Arthur H. Wicks Tells Accomplishments and Proposals of Last Session of New York State Legislature to Members of Kingston Rotary Club—Recounts "Vicious" Proposals.

Senator Arthur H. Wicks returned from the legislature in Albany in time to give the members of the Kingston Rotary Club a talk on the problems, difficulties, and accomplishments of the recent session in Albany. In speaking before his own club in the Governor Clinton Hotel Wednesday noon, Senator Wicks reminded the members that this was the first opportunity accorded him to speak before the Rotary of Kingston regarding a legislative session, and that he considered it a privilege to address them at this time.

Senator Wicks spoke as follows:

A legislature can be as remarkable for what it fails to do as for the bills that it passes. I think one of the greatest accomplishments of the legislature that has just closed was its defeat of many bills introduced in the Senate, which were not only unwise but vicious. Never in the years that I have been in Albany, nor in the memory of many who have been there much longer than I have, has so much unmeritorious legislation been presented to that body. Some of the bills were positively vicious while others were perhaps aimed at a good purpose but were so radical in nature that I believe they would have raised havoc with business had they not been defeated.

The best example of bad legislation was a bill introduced by a New York city Democrat providing for the licensing of all industrial machinery performing work that could be done by hand. It stipulated that all such machinery should be replaced every five years, which would have meant, for example, that a great newspaper, spending hundreds of thousands of dollars upon a printing press, would be compelled to scrap its machinery every half decade. This bill was actually reported and was on the calendar right up to the day of adjournment despite several efforts of Republicans to kill it.

This bill illustrates very well the limits to which some members went in their unwise effort to correct conditions arising out of the emergency. If the legislature deserves credit for anything else, the public should be thankful to it for having killed such bills as this.

The legislature went into session facing a huge deficit which the present administration had inherited from its predecessor. Over a period of more than fifteen years, the state budget had increased from $60,000,000 in 1915 to $328,000,000 in 1931. Governor Roosevelt in 1932 submitted a budget only slightly less than his record breaking budget of 1931, and this was reduced by the Republican Legislature to $276,000,000. Even with this substantial reduction, the state was in a precarious financial condition when the legislature met in 1933, due very largely to the shrinkage of tax receipts resulting, of course, from the economic depression.

Out State Budget.

The Governor and the Legislature this year cut the state budget from $276,000,000 to $266,000,000. This was a very material accomplishment, and while the Republicans in the Legislature deserve great credit for cutting the state expenses beyond the amounts fixed by the Governor, I for one am quite willing to concede that Governor Lehman did a good job.

To meet this budget deficit to make up the deficit in the state treasury, Governor Lehman recommended a sales tax of 1% of 1%, a continuation of the emergency 65% surtax on trucks, a reduction in the exemptions of the personal income tax, an additional tax of 1% on gross income, and an additional tax of one cent on a gallon of gasoline.

By economies effected by the government and shifting the tax burden, the Legislature was enabled to eliminate the emergency 65% increase on trucks and also the additional tax of one cent on gasoline. It substituted a 1% sales tax for the 1% of 1% originally recommended by the Governor.

The 1% tax on gross incomes did not receive the support of many Republicans in either house, although it did get enough Republican votes to pass both houses, on the theory that the budget must be balanced and that Governor Lehman had chosen this manner of doing it. In the opinion of a great many it is the weakest feature of our fiscal program.

Aside from the financial policy of the state, the most important and the most controversial measure that came before the Legislature had to do with milk and with beer. After a year spent in very careful study, the commission headed by Senator Perler A. Fletcher recommended the creation of a milk board with power to fix the minimum price to producers and the maximum price to consumers. The bill was passed only after strikes and riots in some districts upstate had illustrated the necessity for some kind of action. Milk producers were receiving for their produce less than the actual cost of production. Such a situation could not, of course, continue to exist, and the representatives from New York, whose interest, of course, was pri-

5 Jurors Selected In Murder Trial

Louis Drucker of Ellenville and Frank Woolsey of Highland Accepted as Jurors This Morning.

Two more jurors were selected this morning in the Baessler-Connors case on trial in county court. Louis Drucker of Ellenville was the third man called at the morning session and he proved to be acceptable to both the prosecution and the defense. He became juror number four and Frank Woolsey, an automobile salesman from Highland was accepted shortly before the noon recess. There are now five jurors in the box.

Just before the noon recess Judge Traver stated that while he did not wish to inconvenience the attorneys or the jurors he would be compelled to have an evening session today unless the acceptance of jurors was speeded up. He said that rather than limit the examination of jurors by counsel he would hold evening sessions in order to hasten the trial.

George Kallop of Rosendale was called as the first man to be examined. He said he had known Lloyd R. Baessler since boyhood and had known Mr. Baessler's father well and had done work for him. People had talked of the case but he had no opinion expressed and had none now. He said he did not approve of the death penalty and was challenged by The People but on further examination said he could find the defendants guilty if proven guilty even though he knew the death penalty would be inflicted. The challenge of The People was allowed and Cleon B. Murray, district attorney, exercised another peremptory challenge and excused the juror.

Marion E. Beardsley was called. He said he suffered from a nervous affliction and the serving as a juror might aggravate the condition. He was excused by consent.

Louis Drucker Accepted

Then came Louis Drucker of Ellenville. He knew Mr. Baessler and had read of the case but had no opinion. When he read of the case it made little impression on his mind. At this time he said he had a presumption of innocence so far as defendants were concerned and the indictment was no evidence of guilt. District Attorney Murray said he had done some business for him but it was now concluded. He was accepted.

Michael McGowan, 76 years old, was excused on account of his age.

Fred D. Church of Kingston said he had not read of the case but had heard of it. He said he paid no attention to what he said and out the case. "It went in one ear and out the other," he said he had no opinion now as to the innocence or guilt of the defendants. He was excused by The People who exercised another peremptory challenge. Mr. Church was the 38th man examined as a prospective juror.

Chester Ackhart of Chateaufort was called and said he had not read of the case and had not heard much discussion about the case. The discussion had been among jurymen who said the case was one of murder. He has been told that after he was summoned but had not heard any of the facts. He is a school tax collector. He was satisfactory to The People but the defense exercised a peremptory challenge and the juror was excused.

O'Neal Knew Baessler

George O'Neal of Mazonow was called next. He was listed as George "O'Neil" but the defense did not make any challenge as to identity. Mr. O'Neal said he knew Baessler. He had resided near O'Neal some 14 or 15 years ago when Baessler lived on a farm. Juror had a speaking acquaintance with Baessler when they met on the road. He did not know Baessler. His acquaintance with Baessler would not affect his verdict. He said he had read and heard something about the case. It had been discussed to some extent with his brothers but no opinion expressed. Mr. O'Neal said he did not know Baessler in his lifetime. Once while hunting Mr. O'Neal had been in the Baessler restaurant at Kerhonkson. Mr. O'Neal apparently answered the questions to the satisfaction of counsel but Mr. Murray stated that in view of his acquaintance with Mr. O'Neal and his two brothers and in view of the acquaintance of O'Neal with Baessler he would excuse the juror to prevent any embarrassment.

William Clement of Katonah, a stonecutter, was called next. He had read of the case and had heard it talked of at home but had expressed no opinion. However he said he would require the defendants to give evidence of innocence before he could bring in a verdict of not guilty.

Gift To Library Last Soviet Trade Heads Act of Monday Club as Leave London To Report At Moscow It Ends 38 Years Here

Object of Town's Study Clubs Disbands—Has Had Long and Distinguished Career With Notable Achievements.

When Mrs. William M. Davis, treasurer of the Monday Club of Kingston, today presented to the Kingston City Library on behalf of the Monday Club, a check for $150—the balance in the club treasury—"this" was written to the last chapter of this oldest of women's study clubs in Kingston and one of the most distinguished. For 38 years, this club with its membership of the outstanding women of Kingston, has carried on its studies in one form or another. To its open meetings, guests have been invited to listen to distinguished speakers on many subjects, and also to enjoy some equally important musical programs. For several years the Monday Club has supplemented its own study program by offering to the people of Kingston notable lecture courses. And since the formation of The Kingston Federation of Women's Clubs, the Monday Club has been affiliated, at various times having members of its club chosen as president or other high officials of The Federation.

Called together by the late Mrs. Joan G. Van Slyke some time previous to 1895, a small group of women met for study. It was this group that formed, in 1895, the nucleus for the present Monday Club. According to the early records of this club, "An informal meeting of the Monday Club was held at Mrs. F. J. R. Clarke's on October 5th, 1895, when a Committee of Organization was appointed, consisting of Mrs. John Searing, Mrs. G. D. B. Hasbrouck, Mrs. Alvah Newcomb, Mrs. F. J. R. Clarke and Mrs. William Lawton." The members who organized were Mrs. Searing, Mrs. Newcomb, Mrs. Clarke, Mrs. Howard Chipp, Mrs. Charles DeLaVergne, Miss Munn, Miss Elizabeth Munn, Mrs. Lawton, Mrs. A. V. V. Kenyon, Miss Westbrook, Mrs. Hasbrouck, Mrs. John Forsyth, Mrs. Osterhout, Miss Regar, Miss Van Deusen, Miss Tremper and Miss Young. The first regular meeting of The Monday Club was held at the home of Mrs. Newcomb on Monday, November 13, 1895. Mrs. John Searing being elected the first president and Miss Young the first secretary and treasurer. A constitution and by-laws were adopted and it was decided to take up the study of civil government.

Since that first meeting in 1895, the Monday Club has had the following presidents, many of them holding office for several consecutive years: Mrs. John Searing, Mrs. F. J. R. Clarke, Miss Nellie A. Wood, Mrs. Howard Chipp, Mrs. Myron J. Michael, Mrs. James Scott, Mrs. G. D. B. Hasbrouck, Mrs. Henry Van Hoeben, Mrs. William Lawton, Mrs. DeWitt Roosa, Mrs. Charles DeLaVergne, Mrs. A. V. V. Kenyon, Mrs. John Forsyth, Mrs. Henry Van Hoeben, Mrs. William Lawton.

Elected unanimously as president in 1922, Mrs. William Lawton has with rare wisdom and ability presided over the Monday Club as its president up to the time of the club's disbanding, a most remarkable term of 12 years of devoted and appreciated service.

Taken at random, the following titles of subjects will give an idea of the wide scope of this club's research: "Dante and His Times," "Italian Art and Literature," "The Elizabethan Period," "Twentieth Century Problems," "Nineteenth and Twentieth Century Essays and Essays and Essays," "Japan," "Cathedrals and Chateaux of Belgium and France," "Russia," "Social Psychology," "The Fine Arts," "China," "Problems of Modern Social and Political Life," and coming down to the closing year, "The World of Today."

During the life of the Monday Club many notable lecturers have come before the club either in their regular courses of study or at their open meetings. Vassar College has, at different times provided outstanding lecturers, going back to Herbert E. Mills, Ph.D., professor of economics and sociology; later Dr. Washburn, professor of psychology; Dr. Lucy Tonsor, professor of modern history; Miss Laura J. Wyllie, professor emerita of Boston; Dr. Oliver S. Tunka, head of the art department, etc. One of the earliest lecturers at an open meeting was J. Wells Champney who gave a "Chalk Talk." In those earlier days the club and its friends were also privileged to hear the Rev. Dr. Burtell, the Rev. Dr. McGlynn, etc. St. Stephens College has also provided several distinguished lecturers among them being Dr. Edward Idings Bell, former warden of the college; Dr. Albert J. Wood, Litt. D., Dr. Lyford P. Edwards, E. D. N. Voorhees, etc. Another lecturer of distinction was Miss Lois Marsh, formerly of Kingston, and that calls to mind that other local celebrities have addressed the Monday Club, including the Rev. Father Francis O'Reilly, the Hon. Mildred Davis, Sidney K. Clapp, Robert Williams. The last speaker to address the club and its associate members was Dr. Emerson D. Fite of Vassar College whose subject was "The World of Today."

There have also been musical programs of very special merit. One, a song recital of Russian folk songs by Edward Bromberg, was given at the home of Mrs. Hasbrouck. Another was a piano recital given by the then Miss Sarah Marten, member of the club.

Wicks of Delegation Called Home "For Consultation" and Will Start Trip on Monday—Action Follows Trial of British Engineers.

London, April 20 (AP)—The chiefs of the Soviet Russian trade delegation to London were recalled to Moscow today "for consultation" and will start for home next Monday.

This action follows the conviction of five British engineers tried in Moscow on sabotage charges, and the imposition of an 80 per cent embargo against Russian importations into England, a measure reported to be the government in protest against the sabotage case.

Asked if there were any question of the delegation not returning to London, a Soviet official said: "All I can say at present is that the delegation is going home to make a report—a not unusual thing from time to time."

While negotiations between London and Moscow over the sabotage case were going on the British government called home its Russian ambassador for personal discussions concerning it, and he has not since returned.

The British Government is maintaining its firm policy in regard to the embargo pending a final Soviet decision as to whether the prison sentences of L. C. Thornton and William L. MacDonald, two of the convicted engineers, are to be commuted.

The foreign office was without direct information from Moscow but press reports indicated commutation was likely.

In the highest quarters it was learned that if the sentences are commuted Britain will take steps to insure the continuation of Anglo-Russian trade either by rescinding the embargo proclamation or by a licensing system.

It was officially stated that the embargo was not proclaimed in the face of a warning from Moscow that such action would make it more difficult for the Soviet Government to commute the sentences of the engineers.

The British Government, it was declared, received no intimation that Moscow would commute the sentences. The present situation is that Britain will continue the firmest possible steps to protect British subjects in Russia and at the same time will take advantage of any opportunity to maintain trade relations.

$60,000,000 Bond Bill Is Signed

Albany, N. Y., April 20 (AP)—Voters of New York state will be given an opportunity to decide for or against a proposed new $60,000,000 bond issue for unemployment relief at the general election next fall, under a bill signed by Governor Lehman.

The bill carries out a recommendation of the governor, who warned the legislature that the state unemployment relief fund has dwindled almost to the vanishing point and asked the lawmakers to approve a new $60,000,000 bond issue and submit the proposition to the voters. The bill was sponsored by Senator Arthur H. Wicks, Kingston Republican.

New York will have turned over $135,000,000 to its temporary emergency relief administration for distribution in home and work relief to the unemployed since the summer of 1931. The original appropriation was $25,000,000, a $30,000,000 bond issue was approved by the voters in 1931, and the state has obtained $20,000,000 in advances from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The governor also signed today the Wicks bill permitting consolidation of relief work in local districts to prevent overlapping.

Two bills representing some of the governor's views on public utility regulation also were enacted into law today by the governor's signature. One of them is the so-called "upstream loan" bill preventing utilities from advancing loans to companies holding any of their securities. The other permits municipalities to become parties to rate hearings before the Public Service Commission.

U. S. Goes Off The Gold Standard In An Effort To Increase Prices

Suspension Taken To Decrease Purchasing Power of the Dollar

Embarking Upon Managed Currency Program Unprecedented Step For A Major Country—J. P. Morgan Indorses Embargo on Gold Exports.

New York, April 20 (AP)—Uncle Sam was launched upon a bold program today to replenish his pocketbook with managed dollars, temporarily cut loose from gold.

The fateful step of "going off the gold standard" was frankly taken. Before this announcement was made by Treasury Secretary Woodin, dollars had declined in anticipation yesterday some 10 per cent in terms of principal European gold currencies, and prices of stocks and speculative commodities had surged upward.

Not since redemption of paper currency in gold had been resumed in 1879 had the United States officially announced itself off the gold standard, although an embargo on gold exports had been in effect for a time during the World War.

While much confusion developed in high financial quarters as to the import of this momentous step, J. P. Morgan in one of his infrequent public statements, indorsed the new imposition of a definite embargo on gold exports, saying: "It seems to me clear that the way out of the depression is to combat and overcome the deflationary forces."

The embargo upon a managed currency program by the United States was an unprecedented step for a major country. Other notably Great Britain, have abandoned the gold standard under pressure of heavy foreign withdrawals. But the United States, with its huge supply of gold now under government control, and its favorable balance of trade, was in a position, according to financial authorities to keep its currency close to its gold parity had it desired.

An Effort to Increase Prices.

The suspension of the gold standard was undertaken deliberately to decrease the purchasing power of the dollar, in an effort to increase prices and to bring the economic structure back into a working balance.

The gold standard, as commonly defined, provides a measure of value in terms of gold, through redemption of currency in fixed amounts of gold upon demand. In the case of our currency, in 22.2 grains of fine gold to the dollar.

Thus, the gold standard in this country had not been in full operation since the banking holiday in March, when redemption of paper money was halted, but the treasury had licensed a few gold exports for foreign exchange transactions, tending to support the dollar close to gold parity. The definite embargo now placed on exports clarifies the situation.

Gold's chief importance in the financial world has been in settling international balances, for it is the only international measure of value. With gold exports checked, the dollar must find its own level in relation to other currencies, on a demand and supply basis, subject to the control of dealings by the New York Federal Reserve Bank which has been in effect since the banking holiday.

With the United States a creditor nation, and enjoying a favorable balance of trade, foreign exchange experts explain that under normal conditions, the dollar left to find its own level on a demand and supply basis would naturally be expected to advance rather than to decline. The favorable balance of payments to this country have resulted in a huge increase in its store of gold in the past decade.

But the belief that the United States might seek to extricate itself from its economic morass through reducing the purchasing power of the dollar has been sufficient to prompt selling of dollars by foreigners with balances in New York, and the purchase of other currencies, as well as selling of dollars by foreign exchange speculators.

It is this abnormal pressure against the dollar, exchange experts explain, which has decreased its level in relation to other currencies. How far such pressure may reduce the level of the dollar is regarded in Wall Street as highly problematical, and dependent largely upon inflationary steps taken in Washington.

Inflation a Contentious Word

Inflation has become such a contentious word that a number of financial authorities have sought to substitute other words for it, such as "anti-deflation." Inflation is commonly defined as an increase in the circulating medium, meaning either currency or bank credit in the form of checks, or both, with a consequent rise in prices.

Inflation may be accomplished through either credit or currency expansion. It may be accomplished through heavy expansion of bank credit, as in the recent boom years, or through depreciation of the currency, through deliberate reduction in the gold content, an increase in the volume of currency with consequent

DEPARTURE FROM GOLD FELT AROUND THE WORLD

(By The Associated Press)

The first official departure of the United States from the gold standard in more than fifty years was felt today throughout the world.

London—Britain's reaction was puzzlement and extreme anxiety. The dollar value dropped heavily—at one time it was $3.20 to the pound. The British government believed the theory that the United States took the step to provide itself with a hedge against the MacDonald-Roosevelt negotiations.

Paris—Stocks jumped upward and the dollar closed on the Bourse at 22.44 francs, the lowest in more than seven years.

Berlin—A high financial authority said that in the long run present fluctuations could not touch the dollar value, for the United States is the world's creditor. The dollar dropped.

Rome—Large groups of American tourists called at banks and travel agencies seeking advice. The dollar dropped.

Vienna—American travelers got 10 per cent less for their dollars than they did a few days ago.

World Attention On Washington As Two Statesmen Approach

New Significance Attached to the Coming of MacDonald and Herriot As Result of U. S. Going Off Gold Standard.

Washington, April 20 (AP)—World attention centered more than ever on Washington today as two of the world's foremost statesmen approached America's shores for history-making talks with President Roosevelt who only yesterday changed the whole economic picture by withdrawing support of the dollar on foreign exchanges.

New significance was attached to the coming of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain and former Premier Edouard Herriot of France as a result of the American action which Secretary Woodin of the treasury described as taking the United States off the gold standard.

The answer to the question of how soon and on what terms this country might again adhere to a revised international gold standard was believed by many officials to be bound up in the outcome of the quiet talks to be held between the president and his distinguished guests in the next few days. MacDonald arrives tomorrow.

Few here professed to see all the aspects and possible results of President Roosevelt's sudden move, but among the effects was listed a definite step toward the reestablishment of a gold standard to which national currencies could be attached at new parities based on present conditions and values.

From the white house came the word that the dollar would be allowed to find its own level internationally since this was seen in some quarters as a necessary preliminary to establishment of the dollar at a new parity eventually.

With the attitude of the British and French towards the new move not yet clearly indicated, the president was in a position to obtain their views and perhaps their cooperation through the direct conversations soon to begin.

Currency stabilization held a prime position among the matters to be discussed with MacDonald, Herriot and the distinguished representatives of nine other nations who will follow in rapid order, but all aspects of the world's economic plight were scheduled for consideration.

In some quarters it was pointed out that depreciation of the dollar in terms of foreign exchanges apparently would serve to reduce the war debt payment due June 15, a point which the president would be able to make if his British or French guests do the expected and bring up the controversial matter of revision of these obligations.

On tariff matters, the president will be without specific authority to conclude reciprocal agreements, as the bill which would give him this broad power has not yet been sent to capitol hill.

There were indications today that the administration was holding back the traditionally troublesome topic of tariff prove a new monkey wrench in the congressional machinery at a time when smooth action is greatly desired by the white house.

U. S. AND MEXICO TRADE CONVICTED PRISONERS

El Paso, Tex., April 20 (AP)—Climaxing one of the strangest murder cases in Mexican border history, William Jefferson Meers, American youth once sentenced to death for shooting a Juarez waiter, was exchanged at the international bridge here today for a Mexican serving a life sentence in Texas for another killing.

Inflation Measure Will Be Introduced In the Senate Today

Measure Will Be Brought Up as an Amendment To The Farm Bill—Will Give President Authority To Issue New Currency.

Washington, April 20 (AP)—Intense opposition to a "controlled inflation" bill, President Roosevelt and his economic counselors collaborated with congressional advocates of currency expansion today in the drafting of legislation slated to be acted on without delay.

Congressional leaders struggled to overcome constitutional stumbling blocks in the proposed legislation to empower the President to direct a "controlled inflation."

The prediction came from Capitol Hill that the drastic measure would be in readiness and introduced late in the day, as an amendment to the farm bill in the Senate.

The bill would give Mr. Roosevelt authority to issue unlimited new currency as legal tender under the old "greenback" law.

It has been asserted repeatedly, however, that Mr. Roosevelt is set against any "printing press" unsecured currency.

The new legislation also would enable the president to reduce the gold content of the dollar by international agreement or otherwise.

To overcome constitutional objections to the latter proposal, it was tentatively agreed to limit this authority to a reduction of the gold content of the dollar by 50%—the same principle as is involved in his control over tariff rates.

Reacting to the skyward swing of stocks and commodity prices, congressional leaders appeared to be standing behind Mr. Roosevelt's campaign. But quick action was delayed by those in authority, to get the situation fully in his hands as soon as possible.

Enthusiasm over results of the movement, congressional inflationists argued in interviews that the net result would be to make unnecessary the Roosevelt proposals for refinancing of farm and home mortgages.

Easier money conditions would make this unnecessary, they contended.

England Puzzled as U. S. Abandons Gold

London, April 20 (AP)—Puzzlement, coupled with extreme anxiety, was the British reaction today to the American imposition of the gold embargo and the statements from Washington that the United States was off the gold standard.

The immediate concrete result was a heavy fall in the value of the dollar as compared with the pound, coupled with violent fluctuations which within the first hour of trading on the exchange took the dollar down to where it was at one time 3.90 to the pound.

Government quarters were beset with uncertainty as to just what President Roosevelt's move meant and economists were equally bewildered.

Two things did emerge clearly from Downing Street; the present official position is that Mr. Roosevelt's action was not as some suggest, for the purpose of bludgeoning the White House conversations and secondly, there is no disposition on the part of England to try to debase the value of the pound in order to maintain the recent ratio in value of the two currencies.

British officials have taken a page from Mr. Roosevelt's book and at this juncture proposed "to let the pound take care of itself."

England's main concern is that trade advantages which she enjoyed because of her debased currency after her departure from the gold standard might no longer exist.

WETS AND DRY FACE TEST AT ALBANY FRIDAY

Troy, N. Y., April 20 (AP)—The first skirmish between dry and wet forces in New York state over the constitutionality of the state prohibition repeal convention law will be fought out in supreme court here tomorrow.

In an effort to halt the convention plans, representatives of the Law Preservation party and other dry organizations are seeking to restrain Secretary of State Edward J. Flynn from carrying out provisions of the Buckler law. The suit was brought by Dr. Alfred E. Isaac of Brighton, executive secretary of the Baptist Union of Rochester and Monroe counties.

The attorney general will appear for the secretary of state, Joseph H. Choate, Jr., of New York has been selected by anti-prohibition forces to aid in blocking the drrs' attack.

Mr. Tremper Grange.

The regular meeting of Mr. Tremper Grange No. 1465 will be held at the Grange Hall on Friday, April 21, at 8 p. m.

Income Tax Laws

The first income tax that was levied in the United States was put into effect in 1861. The second income tax provision became a law August 13, 1894. This was declared unconstitutional. The amendment of the Constitution giving congress power to lay and collect income taxes became operative February 13, 1913. The income tax was passed October 3, 1913.

The White Elephant Symbol

Among the Romans, the possession of a white elephant was a sign and symbol of universal sovereignty. Every Emperor had one for the purpose of such a treasure during his reign, as a token that his legitimate royalty is recognized by the common powers. When the animal might have been secured, but was intended to those whom he regards as his enemies, the sign is all the other way.

A WASHINGTON DAYBOOK.

By HERBERT PLUMMER
WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald will have much in common when they sit down in the quiet and easy informality of a White House study and begin their economic conversations.

It is a belief shared by both that in such a manner—in the free and open cooperation of friends—are the problems of nations best worked out.

They are friends. Roosevelt met MacDonald back in the days of the world war when he went abroad on a mission as assistant secretary of the navy. And it has been apparent ever since he became President that in the working out of his foreign policy he was eager to talk things over "with my friend Ramsay MacDonald."

Eye-To-Eye
The British prime minister entertains the same feelings. One who sat in the senate chamber that historic October day of 1929 when MacDonald was here for his conversations with President Hoover need only recall what he said in that forum to realize this. "Ah, senators," he exclaimed, "as long as you conduct your negotiations by correspondence over thousands of miles of sea you will never understand each other at all."

In these democratic days, when heart speaks to heart, as deep speaks to deep and silence talks to silence, personality, personal contact, exchange of views by the lip, sitting at two sides of a fireplace, as it was my great privilege to do this weekend with your President—these things are to be as important as anything else in laying the foundation of an enduring peace all over the world.

A Risk Of Prestige
It's important also that the British prime minister, probably the most traveled of present-day statesmen, has escaped the lot of many of his contemporaries. When the head of a government goes on a mission he runs two risks. He is expected to bring back more than he possibly can, and his enemies have a chance to manipulate things behind his back.

Woodrow Wilson, in the opinion of many observers, suffered by his trip to the Paris peace conference. Premier Laval's visit to this country did him little good at home in France.

But as for Ramsay MacDonald—his long absences from London apparently not only have improved his health, but benefited him politically as well.

Egg-rolling at Washington is a prettier thing than log-rolling.

Needle History

The earliest needles had no holes in them, and were undoubtedly used more as pins or as awls, to make holes through which the long underground roots of plants or bindweed and leather thongs were passed, by hand to serve the purpose of thread. These earliest needles were made of stone, bone or ivory. When the advantage of piercing a hole through the blunt end of these implements was discovered, the first real needle was made. During the Bronze age of history, metal needles came into being and further civilization gradually has resulted in the development of over 250 varieties of needles for sewing alone.

Color of Police Dog

The breed of dog which is often called the German Police dog is really the Alsatian Shepherd dog. The true German Police dog is really either a Doberman-Pinscher, or a Schnauzer. The Alsatian Shepherd is a fairly large dog, black or brown along the back with lighter-colored fawn or brown markings around the head, legs and belly. The Doberman-Pinscher is similar in coloring but generally darker, thinner, not so tall, with smooth hair and cropped ears and tail. As with almost every breed of dogs, the Alsatian can be trusted with children with whom he has been brought up.

Challenged for cause by defense and sustained by the court.

Migliard Man Accepted

Frank Woolsey, of England, said he could not say that he had read the case. He answered the question put to him and was accepted as a juror. At present he is employed as an automobile salesman inoughkeepsie.

Grant Smith, former Jailer under Sheriff Arthur Rice, knew all of the counsel in the case but did not know any of the defendants. He said he may have known Quick about 10 years ago when as a boy he hauled lumber from Bill Brown's sawmill at Albion, the Cooperstown. At that time there was a Irish Quick, who worked at the mill and it probably was the man now deceased. Mr. Smith had read of the case but had no opinion. After he read of the case he thought that the people arrested might have committed the crime but he formed no opinion. He said he still had the thought with him that the people arrested might have committed the crime. He was challenged for cause by defense. Later he said he had been mixed up by the questions of counsel. He had no opinion now in the matter and would enter on the case with an open mind. The challenge was disallowed. Mr. Smith said he had been a juror on the Byrd murder case in 1919. Byrd was convicted of killing Officer Lawrence of the local police force with a knife. The defense then challenged on the grounds of impartial bias but the challenge was disallowed and Smith was acceptable to The People but excused by defense. Frank Alley, of Kingston was called. He said he was the father of a former member of the Kingston police officer. His health was not good and he said that was the reason why he did not desire to sit on the case. He was excused by counsel.

John D. Hutchins of Marlborough, son of a former justice of the peace, was the last witness examined at the morning session. He said he was an electrician, had no opinion in the matter and could not recall reading the case although he may have read of it at the time of the arrests. He was excused by The People.

Court recessed until 2 o'clock when an extra panel of 50 jurors responded.

Mr. Lautner is a well known soloist, and has informed the committee in charge of the concert that he is arranging a varied and attractive program for the evening. During Mr. Lautner's stay in Kingston he will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Baer Schwartz of Johnson avenue. Mr. Schwartz is choir master of Trinity Lutheran Church, and has studied chorus and choir directing under Mr. Lautner.

Emus Prove Too Smart for Machine Gun Fire

Not long ago it was reported that emus, large ostrich-like birds, were doomed in Western Australia on account of the depredations they were making on the farmers' crops in the Campion agricultural district. Lewis machine gunners were to be sent out by the commonwealth defense department to destroy the depredating flocks.

But the emus aren't facing immediate destruction, for they are proving more than a match for the machine gunners.

When the gunners first went into the Campion district bent on destroying large flocks of the birds heavy rains fell driving the emus away from the farming areas and into the bush. Later they came back, something like 10,000 strong, and the gunners were again called upon. But by the time they had reached the district the birds had become so wary it was difficult to approach them. They kept more than 1,000 yards away from the guns and instead of appearing by the hundreds as formerly, they ventured forth only in small bands.

As a last resort the gunners set an ambush near a dam to destroy the birds, but there was no sign of them anywhere near the place as long as the gunners waited for them to go in their appearance.

It appears that the emus are a least one step ahead in the battle of wits.—Detroit News.

Suspension Bridges

There is a popular notion to the effect that the even tread of a small animal such as a cat or dog walking over a suspension bridge will cause vibration enough to endanger the bridge. It is true that suspension bridges are all flexible, vibrating or swaying when objects move over them, and that even a small animal walking over would set up a very sharp vibration. Experts have shown that a few soldiers marching over a long suspension bridge in regular step would produce a greater vibration than a much larger force out of step; consequently they are ordered to break step before crossing. In 1850, a suspension bridge in France broke down under 487 soldiers marching in step and nearly half of them were killed.

WOOL FROCKS WITH CAPES FOR SPRING

Colors Stress Beige, Bright Red and Combinations.

New wool ensembles, combining a frock with an elbow length cape or three-quarter length coat, star in the styles as tops for the first balmy days of spring.

Shoes with checked counters, gloves with printed cuffs, scarf collars of knitted wool and low-crowned straw sailor hats add a note of frivolous femininity to the ensemble.

The wools used in these new spring ensembles are generally light in weight. Their colors stress such monochromes as beige, bright red, gray and chartreuse green, and such combinations as beige flecked with brown, black and white and blue and white checks.

A frock of navy blue and white checked wool, designed with long, plain sleeves and a blue leather belt at the natural waistline, is worn with a three-quarter length straight coat and blue kid shoes having counters of the same checked fabric.

NEWEST PRINTS

By CHERRIE NICHOLAS

A white outlined patterning on a dark ground, as here pictured, is the latest thing for daytime prints. It is a question whether white on black or white on navy is in the lead. Anyway, you can't help being attracted by these handsome prints. The huge butterfly bow is of white satin, and there is a facing of the matching satin at the top of the elbow-to-wrist puff which distinguishes the sleeves.

STYLE NOTES

High crowns is latest millinery news.

Plaid organdie for the blouse makes appeal.

Mannish check flannel is popular for the spring suit.

Be crisp, says fashion, in organdie or starched lace.

Quantities of fine knife pleating is latest style message.

For a typically spring color there's nothing excels the now-so-popular Eleanor blue.

Milliners display ensembles of handbags, scarfs, ruches, boutonnieres, belts and collars with hats.

International Eyes Will

Take the Veil This Spring

When spring definitely alights on her balmy toes, international eyes will take the veil. It has all been decided so no need to worry about "Shall I?" or "Shall I not?" And here's how: the new 1933 veils will consist of (don't laugh) narrow little strips of tulle, which do nothing more than cross the eyes. Some of the queer little things are edged with fine lace-like designs, leaving just enough room untrimmed for the peepers to peep through. It may sound a bit queer now—but you'll like it!

"Shoulder Trays" Being

Featured by Designers

Schiaparelli is making a greater point of widening shoulders, streamlining the theme to new extremes in a cut called "shoulder trays."

In these, shoulder pieces jut out over the arms, with the sleeves frequently mounted in pleats. There are other sleeves which have the fullness from elbow to shoulder arranged in vertical outstanding pleats.

Spring Ensembles

Most of the new spring ensembles combine a straightline frock with a brief fitted matching jacket which ends at the hips. Sleeves of the dresses are long or short, waistlines remain at the natural line, while necks often show a high draped line.

Collector's Packet Still Under Johnston

Woodstock, April 19.—With the April issue of "The Book Collector's Packet," one of Woodstock's major enterprises, Miss Virginia Fitzwater, publisher, announces to the subscribers that the editorial supervision of the Packet for the second year will remain under Paul Johnston, well-known book collector, author, typographer, note, painter, and designer of decorated papers.

This is of particular importance at the present moment, because the publication of the Packet in Woodstock has meant employment to various local men at various times throughout the past year. The Book Collector's Packet is issued monthly throughout the year and is given over each period to a discussion of fine books, bibliography, typography and associated literary matters. It is distributed nationally, and is printed by the editor at Woodstock.

Woodstock has for more than a score of years been the common meeting ground of people of colorful capabilities and personalities, yet it is rare to find someone whose talents are so diverse as to make him compatible with all the groups and at the same time a leader in cultural pursuits not represented generally. With the latter group Paul Johnston qualifies.

Mr. Johnston came to Woodstock from Georgia several years ago and it was during the first year of his residence, 1926, that he sold his first article on book collecting, to the "American Collector." The appearance of this thesis, a review of typographical matter, was the deciding influence in his career. The article was instantly seized upon for its meritorious arrangement of poor typography and the Publisher's Weekly, immediately Mr. Johnston was offered a post by Alfred Knopf, New York publisher, as designer for the majority of Borel books, and he abandoned his painting to accept. The succeeding months found Mr. Johnston actively associated with publishers' boards in the designing of books, writing about books and book-making in general. The following year he returned to Woodstock to experiment with several theories connected with book-binding by hand, at which he worked for four months. Then he returned to his advisory post, purchased a printing press and sought to learn the technical end of printing.

As a result of these bibliographical pursuits, Mr. Johnston wrote the book which Elmer Adler, in "The Colophon," described as the foremost text of the times on typography, "Bibliotypographica," published in 1929 by Coriel-Friede, New York, and printed at the Southworth Press, Portland, Maine.

Mr. Johnston has contributed to "The Colophon," an American book collector's quarterly, and "The Pleuron," an English typographical quarterly. In addition to "Bibliotypographica," Mr. Johnston is the author and illustrator of "The She Blows," a New England whaling yarn, published in 1931 by Random House, New York; he has published a series of literary papers, "The Yesterday Pamphlets," a book of Peggy Bacon, poems, and illustrations, "Funeralities," in 1925, while head of the Aldergate Press, New York. He was one of the organizers of "The Hue and Cry," first Woodstock newspaper.

Mr. Johnston plans to publish fine books by Woodstock authors and artists, and this spring will see the first two launched. The initial venture will be a book written and illustrated by Kai Klitgaard, the second by the Woodstock author who writes under the nom de plume of J. H. B., Jr.

Kingston bibliophiles and typophiles are invited to visit the editorial and press rooms of The Book Collector's Packet, Woodstock. Several Kingston people are listed as subscribers to The Book Collector's Packet.

No Complete Vacuum

A complete vacuum would contain absolutely nothing, but a complete vacuum has never been obtained. Most so-called vacuums, such as auto engine vacuum, contain a few atoms of the elements which compose air.

Tender

Tender is a Spanish name for bull fighter, particularly one who fights on horseback. It is derived from the Greek word "tender" meaning a bull, and the Spanish ending "der," meaning "one who engages in an occupation."

marly in the consumer rather than the producer, were compelled finally to see the point of view of the up-state dairymen.

I am frank to admit, as every one else is, that the bill is an experiment. It is subject to attack from many points of view. Price fixing has, in general, not been a success in this country and there is grave doubt concerning the constitutionality of this measure. After careful study, however, it appeared to be the most practical thing that could be done to save the dairy industry in this state from utter ruin, and we can only hope that it will prove effective.

I am glad to say that Governor Lehman has lost no time in the appointing of the third member of this board which is to consist of one member appointed by the Governor, the Commissioner of Agriculture and the Commissioner of Health. The board is already at work at Albany. This district has a great deal at stake in the effectiveness of this measure, and I hope that the commission will receive the full measure of co-operation from everybody affected.

Beer and Milk

When we were not discussing milk at Albany, we were discussing beer. We were in a jam from the very moment when Governor Lehman abandoned the recommendations of the commission which he had appointed and caused to be introduced in the legislature a bill completely repudiating the commission's report and completely throwing overboard the principle of home rule in the issuance of licenses for retail sale. His proposal was that the authority over retail traffic in localities should be vested in a board situated at Albany. This seemed to us not only utterly impractical, but from a political point of view, it seemed to us extremely dangerous. Regardless of the motives of Governor Lehman, regardless of the sincerity of his statements that he would appoint a central board in Albany that would be free from politics, his plan was inherently political. The principle of Governor's commission was by the Governor's commission as the most essential feature of the non-political control of the beer traffic. We never insisted on any particular method for appointing the local board. We adopted at first the recommendations of the Governor's commission, but were willing to alter this provision in any way that would retain for the localities control over the issuance of licenses and would prevent a centralized board at Albany, controlled by a political party, from dictating to the upstate cities, counties, towns and villages who should and who should not sell beer. We felt that even though the power that would be vested in a centralized board should not be abused during the administration of Governor Lehman, it almost certainly would be abused in the years to come.

Arrived At Compromise

Fortunately this temperate subsided in the closing hours of the legislature, and we arrived at a compromise that was certainly satisfactory to us and was apparently satisfactory to the Governor, since he has signed the bill. This measure retains the same time keeps the provisions upon which Governor Lehman was most insistent. It was a happy landing for everybody and I believe that we have on the statute books now a beer control measure which will be a model for other states and will serve as well if and when the Eighteenth Amendment is repealed.

These were the highlights of the 1933 session, saving only the emergency measures that were passed on the recommendation of Governor Lehman during the bank holiday. These measures confer upon the State Banking Department and the Insurance Department very extraordinary powers which would almost certainly be held unconstitutional if it were not for the existence of an acute emergency. The laws will cease to be operative when the emergency ceases to exist.

It was a matter of real satisfaction to most of us in the Legislature to note the way Republicans and Democrats forgot their political differences and rallied to the support of the elected leader of the State in the emergency. One of the greatest speeches that I ever have heard upon the floor of the Senate was the address of the Minority Leader, Senator George R. Peckron, pleading with certain recalcitrant Democratic members to give Governor Lehman a unanimous vote of confidence on these important measures. They were passed with only one dissenting vote.

The Legislature provided for a convention to pass upon the proposed Twenty-First Amendment to the Federal Constitution, repealing the Eighteenth Amendment. A special election will be held on May 23rd and the convention will be held on June 27th. The bill provides for 150 delegates, all elected at large, to be nominated in three groups by petition. One group will be for ratification, a second against ratification, and the third uninstructed.

While it was the opinion of every one in the Legislature that the Amendment will be ratified no matter how delegates are chosen, the Republicans in the Senate opposed the election of 150 delegates at large. They proposed the election of a few delegates from each district and the remainder from the State as a whole, in order that upstate districts might be assured of representation in the convention. Under the present system it would be a very simple matter to nominate and elect all delegates from New York city, since the work of obtaining signatures to nominating petitions will be immeasurably easier in a large center of population than in an outlying district. The Republicans were forced to give way on this point, however. It is our hope that those making up the states will give representation to the communities upstate even though they are not compelled to do so by law.

Passed Wage Bill

The Legislature also passed two minimum wage bills, one applying only to women and children in industry, and the other applying to men, women and children. The latter is restricted, however, to the period of the emergency. Both measures are of doubtful constitutionality, but in many circles it is thought that the bill which would be effective only while the economic emergency continues would have a better chance of standing the test of the court than the other.

A great deal of confusion resulted during the session from the fact that the Democrats controlled the Senate and the Republicans controlled the Assembly. The session was extremely slow in getting started because of the change in the political complexion of the upper house and because of a dispute over patronage matters which held up the real work of the Legislature for something like six weeks. Primarily as a result of this, a great many bills were rushed through during the closing hours of the session. Guests at the meeting were George Wood, William Heltzman and George Kent.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sick and the world looks black, don't swallow a lot of mild, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly smart and bright and full of fun.

For they can't do it. They only make the bowels and a strong movement doesn't get at the cause. The liver is your down-and-out feeling in your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It rots down in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your health is ruined. You often break out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes these good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Remember a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

Mobiloil

IS NOW PROTECTED AGAINST SUBSTITUTION BY

FILPRUF

TODAY the makers of Mobiloil introduce a patented new feature which guarantees that when you ask for Mobiloil, you will be sure of getting what you ask for, what you pay for.

Literally hundreds of thousands of dollars have been invested in this new device to protect every single drop of Mobiloil against substitution.

No other oil has Filpruf. No other oil can have it. We invite you to inspect the protective feature of this new diamond-shaped bottle when you stop in for that needed spring change to Mobiloil. Note how it permits you to identify the grade of Mobiloil your car requires.

Due to its "double range" quality, you now need only one grade of Mobiloil, as recommended for your car on the Mobiloil chart, for spring and summer to protect the engine at any speed, fast or slow, at any temperature, anywhere you drive. Don't delay! Change today!

THE MOONEY CASE

New Trial Brings
Spotlight Again

A PICTURE STORY

No. 1. The Parade Set for Tragedy

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of four illustrated stories giving the background of the case of Tom Mooney in connection with his approaching new trial.

(By The Associated Press)
Tom Mooney's case is heading toward a new climax in San Francisco April 26 after 17 years in prison, part of them marked by the shadow of the noose.
This time, another trial is to bring to life a dormant charge, one virtually a duplicate of that which resulted from the bombing of a Preparedness Day parade in San Francisco on July 22, 1916 and for which he was condemned first to death and then to life imprisonment.

Ten lives were snuffed out that day when a suitcase loaded with dynamite and scraps of iron exploded among the spectators gathered at Steuart and Market streets to witness the parade. Mooney and an alleged co-conspirator, Warren K. Billings, were convicted of first degree murder for causing one of those deaths. Now Mooney is to face the same charge but with another victim named.

Accittal on this second indictment, he hopes, would give him the right to demand vindication on the first charge.
The "Mooney case" one of the most celebrated in American criminal annals, goes back to the country's efforts to prepare itself against the danger of possible embroilment in the great war in Europe.
The situation was seized upon by radicals, who charged capitalists were trying to plunge the country into the conflict.
When "preparedness days" were planned as demonstrations of patriotism in the chief cities, the opposition became especially vocal. Threats of trouble were climaxed by the San Francisco explosion.

Mooney, his wife and Billings had achieved reputations as "direct action" agitators on the coast.
They fled when the round-up of suspects started after the parade bombing, but were found at a resort in the mountains. Billings was arrested along with Israel Weinberg, a jittery bus driver and Edward F. Nolan, a radical agitator.
Mooney offered an alibi based upon a snapshot of the parade. It showed, the defense contended, Mooney and his wife on the roof of the building in which they lived several blocks from the scene of the explosion.

In the background was a street clock which registered the time as within only a few minutes of the tragedy.
The defense contended that they could not have reached the roof within the brief space of time elapsing between the hour at which the prosecution said they were seen at Steuart and Market and that shown by the clock.
Mooney's aged mother, Mrs. Mary Mooney, was active in plans for his defense.

Tomorrow—The First Trial.

Flashes of Life
Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)
Omaha, April 20 (AP)—Beauty pays dividends in more ways than one. Dr. Joseph C. Bloodgood, adjunct professor of surgery at Johns Hopkins Medical School, told 150 physicians from Nebraska and neighboring states that a beautiful woman never gets cancer of the face because she constantly "takes care of it."

Politeness And Tact
Portland, Ore.—In the Portland police bulletin appears the notice: "Officer J. C. Lamb reports leaving a pair of trousers hanging in the locker room and asks that the officer who is taking care of them please return them to him."

Beware of Bar-Foot
Chicago—Beware of Bar-Foot, says Dr. William Gribow, an officer of the Illinois Chiropractic Association. "Some men—and women," he told a foot clinic, "have a habit of placing one foot on a rail in front of a bar and keeping it there for a considerable time. The result is that the other foot takes the full weight of the body."

Gets A Doll Baby
Escanaba, Mich.—When Mrs. Adolph Frank discovered her six-months old baby had been kidnapped from a carriage while she was shopping, police started a frantic search. Two hours later the baby was found unharmed in possession of 7-year-old Anna Mae Engdahl.
Anna Mae explained she wanted a "live doll" with which to play.

A New Deal
Schiller Park, Ill.—This village is in for some kind of a new deal. It elected Mrs. Julia M. Kolze, reputed to be the best cook in town, as its village president and she said: "I'm going to run this town just as I run my house."
Mrs. Kolze is believed to be the first woman head of a municipality in Illinois. Her daughter, Grayce, was her campaign manager.

As She Is Spoke
Baltimore—William Rundle Hecker, headmaster of Wilson's Grammar School, Camberwell, England, attended a baseball game here.
"The gentleman in the seat behind me kept yelling in an extraordinary way," he recounted afterward. "I tried to catch what he was saying but it was an entirely new jargon to me. I couldn't understand a word of it."

Of Man River
Omaha—Old man river—the muddy Missouri in this particular instance, is to be thanked by thirsty Nebraska beer drinkers.
Years ago the Missouri went on a rampage and chopped off the land now occupied by the village of Carter Lake, which is a part of Iowa, although on the Nebraska side of the river. Nebraska is dry, but Iowa is wet so far as 3.2 beer is concerned, and when the Carter Lake village council voted to issue beer licenses last night it put the new beverage right in Omaha's back yard.

The Stein Business Is Good
Morton, Ill.—Since beer came back this town has seen things hum in the pottery business.
The local factory is turning out some 4,000 steins a day. Within the past ten days the company has been operating at top speed with an increased working force of 60 men.
Officials said they were swamped with orders.

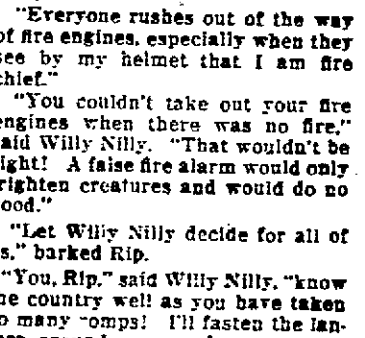

Shoes Cost Money
Chicago—At 5 years of age, Jules Tewel, tips the scales at 106 lbs. He's so big his mother, Mrs. Lillian Tewel finds it difficult to get clothes to fit him. His shoes have to be custommade.
The last pair cost her $12.

Pants Come in Handy
Kenosha, Wis.—Arthur Schmorrow is a resourceful fisherman.
When the motorboat in which he and Maynard Knutsen were visiting nets at night stalled 12 miles from shore, Schmorrow stripped off his trousers, soaked them in oil, and set fire to them. Holding the burning garment aloft, Schmorrow attracted the Kenosha coast guard lookout and soon was back on land, looking for another pair of pants.

These are happy days for the gardener, before he begins his annual struggle to tell a weed from a vegetable or flower.

The Plans
By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
"You can fasten the lantern around my neck," said Rip, the dog. "In case it becomes dark again before I get back."
"Now, don't you get lost!" exclaimed Willy Nilly.
"Oh, no," said Rip. "I'll be all right. No harm will come to me."
"I might get out the fire engines," suggested Mr. Quacko Duck, "and that would make all enemies of Jelly Bear fly for their lives!"
"Everyone rushes out of the way of fire engines, especially when they are by my helmet that I am fire chief!"
"You couldn't take out four fire engines when there was no fire," said Willy Nilly. "That wouldn't be right! A false fire alarm would only frighten creatures and would do no good."
"Let Willy Nilly decide for all of us," barked Rip.
"You, Rip," said Willy Nilly, "know the country well as you have taken so many 'omps! I'll fasten the lantern around your neck as you suggested and you go looking and barking through the woods!"
"All the Ducks can fly over Puddle Muddle and see what they can discover from the air. They'll be the Air Patrol. Top Notch can go to every hill in Puddle Muddle and from the top of each can crow an announcement such as this:
"If any one knows where Jelly Bear may be, please come to the shop of Willy Nilly with the information! There will be a large reward. And I will go to the neighboring villages and ask the people if they have seen him. Let's all get started!"

Land Banks Set Farm Refinancing Pace In Emergency Bill Approved By House

By FRANK L. WILLER

(Associated Press Farm Editor)
Washington, (AP).—The federal land banks, pioneers in the farm credit field since 1917, proceed again as pacemakers under authority of the emergency farm mortgage bill passed by the house.

During the next two years the bill would permit the offering of a maximum of $2,000,000,000 of 4 per cent bonds, the proceeds of which would be lent at 4 1/2 per cent interest on first mortgage security.

Twelve Land Banks.
The banks, located in 12 key cities, act virtually as a single institution.
They now have $1,253,000,000 of gross loans outstanding to farmers at an average of 5 1/2 per cent interest against which they have $1,147,407, 420 of bonds outstanding to the public at approximately 4 1/2 per cent interest.

Limited to an interest spread of 1 per cent, the land bank's rate to the farm borrower has been gauged by the rate of interest it had to offer to sell its bonds. The government guarantees the interest on the $2,000, 000,000 issue and the bonds are tax free.

Interest Reduction Aim.

The hope is to attract sufficient investment at 4 per cent to enable the banks to reduce their interest charges to 4 1/2 per cent for the next five years to present borrowers and for the next two years to new borrowers. No payment on principal will be required for five years. Most loans are expected to be amortized over a period of 30 years.

Adding to the prestige of the federal land banks, the new farm credit administration governed by Henry Morgenthau, Jr., operates entirely through the board of directors for the land and federal intermediate credit banks.

Associations Farmers' Contacts

A farmer may go direct to his federal land bank for a new loan or to refinance an old mortgage, but it is

Farm credit from government-sponsored sources reaches the farmer through channels indicated by the accompanying diagram. The emergency farm mortgage bill passed by the house of representatives would make the federal land banks even more important in farm financing.

required that, where they exist, he apply to the national farm loan association which appraises his property and lends him the money it has borrowed from the land bank on his mortgage. These associations are expected to be the farmers' chief point of contact with the farm credit administration in refinancing and scaling down first mortgage debt.

Side by side with the land banks and one to each federal land bank district are the federal intermediate credit banks which make commodity loans to cooperative farm marketing associations and crop production loans to farmers applying through local farm credit corporations and livestock loan companies.

These latter agencies make 60 to 90 day loans on chattel mortgages which they post with their own notes in borrowing funds from the intermediate credit banks.

Crop production loans may also be financed from funds lent by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, which set up regional agricultural credit corporations to make such production loans to farmers in areas unable to produce the capital for locally-owned credit corporations.

home. They had been neighborly.
The last he saw Quick was two or three weeks prior to the murder.

However he said he thought he could be a fair and impartial juror and go according to the evidence. He had never served as a juror before. In reply to one question he said he would be reluctant to bring in a verdict of guilty knowing that such verdict would invoke the death penalty although he had said a moment before that he was not opposed to the infliction of the death penalty in a proper case. He was challenged by the district attorney for cause and sustained by the court.

Charles O. Jansen of Warwick said he had read of the case in the New York paper but had no opinion in the matter. He also said that he would not require the defendants to prove their innocence in the matter.

Asked if he knew what "premeditation" meant he said he did. Asked what it was he said premeditation was where it had been planned before and when they went there they knew what they were going to do. That constituted first degree murder and the district attorney stated that the juror evidently knew what first degree murder was. After examining at some length Mr. Lounsberry challenged the juror for cause and stated that his grounds were that the juror had "wavered in his answers, was uncertain and at times unresponsive to questions put."

Answers had been drawn out he said by objections from the district attorney and that answers had shown bias.

The challenge was disallowed by the court and The People accepted Mr.
Jansen but the defense used another peremptory challenge and the juror was excused by defense.

Next came Ira Decker, Kerhonkson contractor. He knew all of the Baessler restaurant at least twenty times. During the past winter he had seen Conner. His acquaintance with Baessler went back about 14 years and he was well acquainted with him. Conner he said he knew for about 16 years and Conner had worked for him as a laborer for some six weeks about 14 years ago. He also knew Quick for 16 or 17 years.
Quick lived about eight miles away and he knew Quick intimately. A year ago the past winter Quick had worked with Decker. He said however with all parties he could sit on the case and act as a fair and impartial juror. He approved the death penalty in a proper case.

Mr. Decker said he would be reluctant to convict the defendants if the evidence was close and Mr.
Murray challenged for cause.

Judge Traver asked, "Now do you gentlemen want this man who is acquainted with all of the people in the locality? What we all want here is a fair juror, fair to both sides and if you don't want him let him go."

Mr. Lounsberry stated that the law took care of such cases and that the juror had said he could be a fair juror.

District Attorney Murray exercised a peremptory challenge and excused the juror "in order to save time and in all fairness to all."

Louis Snyder of High Woods, county road foreman, said he had read of the case but had formed no opinion. He had never served as a juror and had never been at Ker-honkson except to pass through. At the time he said he had read of the case but not knowing the parties he said he had not been interested and could not now recall any names involved. No discussion of the case had ever come to his attention. He was accepted as juror three.

George Cook of Kingston, father of Attorney A. J. Cook was called next. He answered all questions fairly but stated his health was not good and he had been recently got-ting around after an illness. Judge Traver stated that he did not desire to take any chance of injuring Mr.

Cook's health and by consent the juror was excused by the court.

John Legg of Lake Katrine, a farmer, was asked if he knew that the charge was murder, first degree.
He said he did. Asked if he knew any of the defendants he replied that he knew Mr. Loughran. This brought forth a burst of laughter which caused even the two defendants to laugh. It was explained that Mr. Loughran was not a defendant but counsel in the case. The juror said he had read of the case but had no opinion and could sit without embarrassment. Mr. Legg said he had served as a juror at the first trial of Edward Van Aken, convicted of murder first degree for the killing of his wife at Port Ewen a number of years ago. At the second trial Van Aken was acquitted.
Legg said the People would have to prove the defendants guilty and they would have to prove their innocence.
Asked his age he said he was over 70. Mr. Lounsberry challenged and the juror was excused due to being over the age limit.

Over the Douglas of Ulster Park came next. It was his first experience as a juror. He said he had read of the case but had formed no opinion and was not opposed to the death penalty. Mr. Douglas said he knew Sheriff Saxe. The People would be required to prove the defendants guilty. At this time he said he could recall what he had read of the case. The defendants would have to prove their innocence.
He said if the testimony was even he would find them not guilty. Asked if he were a deputy sheriff Mr. Douglas hesitated and inquired several times what the question was. He evidently did not understand the meaning of the question. He was challenged for cause by defendants and the challenge sustained.

Thomas J. Glennon of Abel street was called. He had read of the case but had no opinion. His understanding was that The People would have to prove the defendants guilty and if he was so instructed by the court he would not require the defendants to prove their innocence or to give any testimony. If he had no reasonable doubt after the evidence was in, he said, he would find the defendants not guilty. He was challenged by The People for cause and sustained.

Frank DeGrady of West Hurley was the last juror examined at the afternoon session. He said he was a building contractor. Unlike most of the jurors thus far examined, he said he had never read of the case.
He took no paper and did not read a paper. He thought an indictment was some evidence of guilt and the defendants should provide some evidence of their innocence. Mr.
Lounsberry challenged for cause and the juror was excused.

Court recessed until 10 o'clock this morning.

Meetings Planned To Hear Dr. Warren

Everybody will be interested in the special broadcast over WGY Friday evening, April 21, at 8:30, when Dr. Warren of Cornell University will discuss the fundamental issues involved in the present economic situation. Dr. Warren is recognized as one of the leading authorities on economic problems. He will discuss them mainly from an agricultural point of view, but the basic principles are similar for all of our troubles.

Hundreds of special meetings are being arranged by the three departments of the extension service, namely, the Farm Bureau, Home Bureau and 4-H Clubs, in all parts of New York state. In Ulster county numerous meetings are being arranged which will include the radio feature in the program. Some will start with a supper, followed by an entertaining program. In some cases plans are being made to discuss some of the issues presented after the broadcast. A few communities are sponsoring "May-at-Home-Nights" on Friday for the purpose of hearing this program. The program will be opened by Dean C. E. Ladd of the State College of Agriculture, promptly at 8:30. After a brief introductory talk, Dr. Warren will speak. The officers of the Farm and Home Bureau Association urge that every person, not able to attend one of the community meetings, make some plan whereby it will be possible to hear this special program. A better understanding of the fundamental issues involved in the present situation will help everybody to interpret the causes and appreciate the tremendous problems involved.

Presbyterians in Annual Meeting
Readout Presbyterian Church Members
Rev. Dr. Ellis, a Former Pastor, By Electing Miss Pastor Emerita.
The Rev. Dr. Charles G. Ellis of Margaretville, who had served the Readout Presbyterian Church as its pastor for 26 years, was unanimously elected pastor emeritus of the church at the annual meeting of the congregation held Wednesday evening in the chapel. The congregation also elected three trustees and elected a board of deacons. Reports from the various boards and societies of the church showed it had enjoyed a very successful year.

The annual meeting was preceded by the serving of a chicken supper by members of the Ladies' Aid Society of the church. The tables had been artistically decorated with flowers, and an exceptionally fine menu was served. The meeting was one of the largest congregational meetings held in recent years.
At the annual meeting William C. Kingman and Professor Arthur H. Russell, elders of the church, were selected as moderators and the first order of business taken up was the election of three trustees. Frank McCausland and H. L. Van Deusen were named trustees. The election resulted in the selecting of Charles Terwilliger, John B. Stanley and Samuel Peyer as trustees for three years.
The Rev. James N. Armstrong, Jr., pastor of the church, spoke briefly of the activities of the church during the past year. He said that the church had observed the 100th Easter of the parish last Sunday. Among the floral decorations and greens which covered the pulpit were 150 lily blossoms, 100 of them being in celebration of the century of the church's life, and the others in memory of elders who have served the church and of members and friends who have died in the past twelve months or recent years.
A brief memorial service in tribute of these seven, especially the two elders, Frank R. Fowler and Harry G. Smith, was held with prayer being offered by the Rev. Dr. Ellis.
The congregation also elected 12 of the young men of the church to serve as a board of deacons. This is the first in the history of the church that it has had such a board. The twelve selected were: Thomas Rowland, Harold Davis, Burt Van Deusen, Samuel Peyer, Frank McCausland, Herbert Van Deusen, Byron Stevens, Harold Metcalf, Le-

The first report meeting of the Kingston Branch of the Y. M. C. A. Association was held at the Association Building Wednesday evening with $1,882.75 subscribed.
The speaker of the evening was Harry Edison, chairman of the Y. M. C. A. Association of the Kingston Branch. The speaker told of the work carried on in the Junior Rotary Club. "Some time ago," said the speaker, "the Rotary Club decided to do something in the way of organized boys' work. After consulting the officers of the Y. M. C. A. a definite plan was agreed upon. The principals of the various schools assisted in the selection of the boys who were to be members of this club. The club now has a membership of 49 boys and meets once each week at the Y. M. C. A. where they have a Gym period, swim and club meetings." Mr. Edison spoke very highly of the splendid leadership of Mr. Foster who has charge of the physical program of the boys at the Y. M. C. A. He also praised the work of Mr. Fulton, boys' work secretary of the Y. M. C. A. who has given assistance and leadership in the club meetings of the boys. Mr. Edison concluded by praising the program of the Y. M. C. A. and urged each worker to do his best to make the present campaign a success.

Subsistence Gardens Will Be Explained
There will be a meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in the Common Council Chamber at the City Hall, of The Workers Co-operative Association. The main topic of the evening will be the presentation of the plans of the subsistence gardens, sponsored by the association locally, in cooperation with the state. At a meeting last week W. E. Georgia, state executive in charge of subsistence gardens, outlined the plans to the executive committee of the association. Mr. Georgia came here at the request of Ex Mayor Palmer Canfield, executive chairman of the Workers Co-operative Association.
It will be explained at the meeting tonight how to procure the seeds and plants for the gardens, the cost of which is paid 100% by the state. The association has accepted the plot of land offered by Arthur J. Burns for the use of the members that might want a plot also.
The principal speaker of the evening will be Albert Kurdt, manager of the Ulster County Farm Bureau. Mr. Kurdt is a member of the advisory board of the Workers Co-operative Association acting in the capacity of Garden Advisor and his talk this evening will be of value to all seeking a garden.
The meeting is open to everyone wishing to plant a garden and all interested are urged to attend and make application for the seeds and plants.

4th Birthday of Chancellor Hitler

Berlin, April 20 (AP).—Chancellor Hitler's 44th birthday was celebrated throughout Germany today by a popular fervor never exceeded by similar celebrations in honor of the former Kaiser and President Hindenburg.

Flags were liberally draped with red, white and black, the colors of the German flag, and the streets were filled with the bustle of the Berlin police, with Nazi storm troops and Steel Helmet detachments lined along the famous thoroughfare Unter den Linden. Special sides were held in the Protestant cathedral and a matinee concert was given in the state opera house.

Portraits and busts were placed in shop windows. Thousands of street hawkers did a brisk business selling Hitler's favorite flower, the Edelweiss, for charity.

The Prussian ministry of education issued in honor of the birthday that disciplinary penalties or "Sanktionen" incurred by students as a consequence of having "devoted themselves to the furtherance of national aims" shall be revoked and they given "preferential treatment."

Hitler spent the day in the region of his country home near Tegernsee, Bavaria, where numerous drinkables, Easter eggs, and even lumps of sugar for dogs accumulated.

Among the well-wishers were President Von Hindenburg, members of the cabinet, the German Officers' corps, which sent warm professions of allegiance, and Commander-in-Chief of the Salvation Army.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Ross and family and Edith Paltridge were callers in Newburgh on Saturday evening.

David Manse, who attends school in Jamaica, L. I., is spending his spring vacation at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Manse, here.

The Home Bureau unit held its last lesson in stitichery at the home of Mrs. Frank Black on Friday.

Funeral services for Granville France, who died suddenly at his home in Flatbush on Tuesday, were held this afternoon in the Mt. Marion Reformed Church. Interment was in Mt. Marion cemetery. He is survived by his wife, who was Ida L. Warren before marriage; two brothers, Matthew and Egbert, both of Flatbush, and several nieces and nephews. Mr. France was a carpenter and painter by trade.

Mrs. Luther Cashdollar died at the home of her son in Saugerties on Wednesday in her 64th year. Funeral services Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with interment in Trinity cemetery, Saugerties. Three daughters, Mrs. Albert Cutler of Maiden, Mrs. Harold Osterhout of West Hurley and Mrs. R. J. Joseph of Brooklyn; three sons, Clifford Cashdollar of Saugerties, Floyd Cashdollar of St. Joseph, Mo., and Herbert Cashdollar of Catskill, survive as well as two sisters, Mrs. Chauncey Stewart of Kingston and Mrs. Margaret Goslee of Schenectady, and two brothers, Arthur Wolven of Tannersville and Luther Wolven of Kingston.

There will be an important meeting of Vanderlyn Council No. 41, D. of A. on Tuesday evening, April 25, when the past councilors are to be entertained. Don't collect 10,000,000 every day.

"I will admit that we tried to hide our ankles," said the Old Lady. "At least we tried to hide something. It seems to me that people could find out in the newspapers about you girls wearing bloomers without you proving it to them. And just because you have shed your corsets, is that any reason why you should be a Communist or any time you dance? Is it absolutely necessary that you should attempt to crawl into the gentlemen's vest pockets? And is it because you are afraid of catching cold that you make it impossible for any draft to come between you? I am a petrified fossil, propped up on the sidelines, and tolerated because I own a little Real Estate and I am 22 miles behind the parade, but I am asking just the same."

"There is no use trying to explain it to a Has-Been," said little Genevieve, warily. "I suppose we should all wear something with lace at the bottom and sit by ourselves, over in a corner waiting for the gentlemen to bring us some chicken salad, but then days are gone forever. You can probably remember when the principal instrument in an orchestra was the flute and the blue Danube was Hot Diggity-Do. Likewise the Lancet, which I would classify as the Zero of Indoor Sports."

"Everything which happened before this year is evidently antiquated and N. G.," said Grandmother. "I will admit that the orchestra which used to play for our dances did not have any Steamboat Whistle or Derby Hat. But they made lovely music. And when I say music, I mean music. I don't mean an imitation of a dying pig or a busy day at the insane asylum. Furthermore, any gentleman who came to a party all lit up like a cathedral would have been given the gate. Nowadays all of our best young people gather around him and give three hearty cheers and then follow him to the cloak room. It's a terrible situation."

Grandma takes the count.

"It sure is," agreed Genevieve. "Most of the stuff is synthetic. By the way, Granny, now that you are all wound up, why don't you bawl me out for being a Bob? Go on and tell about the Good Old Days when every Gal had a Horse's Tail hanging down her back, and when she did it up she put in a couple of Soft Pillows and then wore a Rhine-Stone Comb, just to make the whole thing more blash. Then, after she got a 15-inch hat, with a Kitchen Garden around the Terrace and a Velvet Bow on Top, and clasped on her Cameo Brooch and pulled out her Puff Sleeves, if she wasn't a Gawk you're crazy. A Woman had so much Junk above her shoulders in those days, it gave her the Neck-Ache to carry it around. Yes, indeed, the Snappy Days of Yore! Give the Sweet Young Thing a Buggy Ride and a Ball of Pop-Corn and she'd be contented for several days. I figure that, to please the superannuated Follies, all of us blue-eyed Beauties should go back to playing Charades and working Card-Board Mottos. Also ride in Victorias, have a Taffy Pull once in a while and take Lessons on the Harp. We must be rather Rough House, as I learn that we are being criticized severely by all those who are cheating the Old People's Home by running around on the Outside. They have talked incessantly for a number of Years but they have not so far as I can learn, headed off a single Petting Party. I must now leave you to play 18 holes, attend a couple of Teas, take in a shake-up Party at a Man's Apartment, dine at a Road-House and dance all night at the Cross-Eyed Goose. If the Police don't get me, I'll see you tomorrow at this hour."

Saying which she departed, leaving Grandma on the Ropes.

MORAL: Do not repress the joyous, criminal instincts of youth.

Florida Sponge Fields

Controlled by Greeks

The Greeks discovered Tarpon Springs, Fla., prior to the discovery of St. Petersburg, a neighboring city. They also discovered that the Key West spongers were harvesting the sponges with prong hooks from the bow of a dinghy. Thereupon, they moved in with modern diving equipment and sea-going vessels, and made a cleaning in the sponge industry. Not only were they able to operate in the old beds more successfully, but beyond the depths of the hooker they found new fields filled with an unlimited supply and superior quality of sponge.

The sponges are now harvested by Greeks, cleaned of all animal matter before they reach shore by other Greeks, and sold by still other Greeks. After cleaning, they are strong onto strings about six feet long. The string is called a "hunch" and the day's catch is tallied in number of "hunches." Before they are of service for erasing a deficit from a blackboard or mopping a windshield, the rough edges have to be clipped.

The sponges too large for commercial use are cut into pieces and called "cats" while those used in original form are called forams.

Old Habit Justified

That old habit of a woman looking under the bed for a male intruder has produced results. When a woman returned to her room in Los Angeles and switched on her bedroom light she started to look under the bed. She saw a man's shoes and heard a muffled cough. Frightened but with presence of mind, she ran to another room and telephoned for police. Two policemen came and dragged the intruder from his hiding place.

Society Notes

Antarctic Club.

The last meeting for the season, of the Antarctic Club, will be held next Wednesday afternoon at 8:30 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Van Hoovenberg. At that time the play "Life" will be given, officers will be elected and the program for next year arranged.

Surprise Party.

Lake Matine, April 20.—A pleasant surprise party was tendered Mrs. Gertrude Truman in her new home last Saturday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ford, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Willie and Mrs. G. C. Parrish. The evening was spent playing popular games. Mr. Willie and Mrs. Truman won honors. After a bounteous collation the guests departed wishing their hosts many happy returns of the day.

Golden Wedding Anniversary.

The golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Foss of 223 West Chester street was celebrated in Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran Church on Livingston street, Monday, April 17. The celebrants were escorted into the church to a place before the altar. The bride carried a bouquet of yellow and white snapdragons. The altar was beautifully decorated with yellow jonquils and other spring flowers. The assembled congregation joined in singing, "The Lord hath helped me hitherto," after which the pastor, the Rev. E. L. Witte, delivered a jubilee address, based on the text Psalm 92, 14-16. Mrs. E. L. Witte then sang, "Take Thou my hand and lead me." The couple now came to the altar to receive the benediction. The brief, but impressive service was closed with the singing of "Let our going out be as the going out of day."

Miss Lydia Dornseiff was the organist. The guests then assembled in the parish hall where a festive dinner awaited them amid beautiful gold and white decorations. The centerpiece of the bride's table was a marvelous golden basket from which was suspended a lace pendant, inscribed with the numerals fifty in gold; the basket was surrounded by myrtle and filled with dainty white lilies of the valley. The celebrating bride and groom sat beneath a canopy of gold and white decorations, surrounded by a golden wedding bell. The tables were fittingly adorned with yellow roses, tulips and jonquils. George H. Wachenfeld of Brooklyn, N. Y., acted as master of ceremonies. The first speaker called upon was the Rev. F. P. Wilhelm of New York city, a former pastor of the parish; next in order was the Rev. F. T. Schroeder of the parish. William Peters then read three original poems written for the occasion in English, German, and low German. The Rev. E. L. Witte was called upon, and in the course of his remarks he read a poetical contribution forwarded by the Rev. L. W. Dornseiff of Ft. Wayne, Indiana, for the occasion. George Well then responded to the call of the toastmaster. The happy bride voiced the sincere thanks of the celebrants, and Mrs. F. P. Wilhelm and Mrs. E. L. Witte presented the congratulations of the ladies present. The speakers one and all congratulated the couple and wished for them many more years of wedded bliss under happy auspices. The gathering joined in singing old-time songs accompanied by two nephews of the celebrants, Clarence Luedtke, at the piano, and Ernest Luedtke, Jr., playing the violin obligato. Ernest Luedtke also played several popular violin selections, accompanied by Miss Mildred Haas at the piano. Mr. and Mrs. Foss were the recipients of numerous tokens of the high regard in which they are held, and they in turn presented a beautiful chalice to the church in which they were married fifty years ago, during the pastorate of the Rev. Mr. Truman, and of which they have been steadfast members during all of these years. Present were, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Foss, William Foss, Miss Anna Foss, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Luedtke, Sr., Mr. and Mrs

Marelo Trains Hard For Benny Shields

Little Johnny Marelo, Glasco, and Kingston favorite, who gave his first shot locally in a main event at the old armory Tuesday night, April 25, is training faithfully and hopes to outclass Benny Shields to prove his superiority over the Windale brawler and also that he is worthy of the lead on the American Legion welfare fund card.

Marelo works every day at the old Berringer arena, where he once fought the celebrated Babe Lancaster, colored Middletown clown boxer who recently gave Otis Paradise, Brooklyn flash a run for his money on the last Legion card. Johnny does his usual routine of rope skipping, bag punching and shadow boxing, then goes two or three rounds with Charlie Carpio, local heavyweight, and Johnny Carpio, his brother, who several years ago was known as the uncrowned lightweight champion of the Hudson valley. Although the old champ is out of the ring for keeps, he is still interested in boxing and satisfies his desire to keep close to the ring pastime by managing Marelo.

Condition Good
Carpino is more than pleased with Johnny's condition and believes he will put up one of the best battles of his career. He weighs 140 pounds and has plenty of endurance—enough to carry him through 10 rounds, Carpio thinks. By weighing in time next Tuesday, Marelo should weigh closer to 135 pounds, says his manager, who is not too anxious for his man to climb through the ropes below that because Shields likely will fight at around 133, he believes.

Last week it was announced that tentative arrangements had been made for a bout between Marelo and Babe Lancaster, but the eye injury the negro received in his clash with Otis Paradise interfered with negotiations going through for the match. Then, too, when the Babe heard he had to meet the same little boy who panted him all over the ring at the Berringer, he seemed anxious for the excuse to decline, saying he would much rather meet Paradise again than face Marelo. Johnny's team bang style prevents the negro from getting into his famous crouch position. And the Babe doesn't like the steam Marelo packs in his workouts, either.

Shields A Tough One.
With Lancaster out of the picture and having promised Marelo the main bout, Doc Stender had to find a tough man as he could for the Glasco Italian. He looked over his whole list and outside of Otis Paradise, who is not available for April 25, settled on Benny Shields, the "Windale Wildman." Shields is said to be one of the hardest hitting lightweights in the amateur ranks. He has defeated some of the best boys in his class including Babe Lancaster himself, and Honeyboy Hughes of Granville, former 133 pound champion of the Amateur Federation.

Shields is no new comer to Kingston. He fought Otis Paradise at the Elks Club last winter and although he lost the decision put up a good fight. Regardless of the Brooklyn expert's reputation, Benny was figured a sure bet to win by his followers who left Kingston with less cash than they came here with. "Benny had an off night," was their excuse for his defeat.

Pick Benny Again.
The same contingent of admirers will be with Shields when he comes to duel with Marelo. Needless to say, they will back him just as heavily as they did for Paradise although stories are that they think the Glasco lightweight will give their man a tougher scrap than Otis. They base their contentions on reports of scraps Marelo has won upstate recently over boys who are rated highly among the amateurs.

Although the scrap with Shields will be Marelo's first appearance in a headline bout here it will not be his first experience on top. He has appeared in features upstate where he is known as the "New Orleans Terror." Sports writers called him that because his style resembles that of an old boxer from the lower Mississippi valley. Johnny hopes to make as big a hit with local fans as he did around Albany and to show that he has improved much since his last campaign in Kingston.

Promising Prelims.
Charlie Carpio, Marelo's sparring partner, is also booked to fight on the armory card of April 25. He is matched with Battling Levinsky who recently fought a draw with Mickey Raymond. Carpio is desirous of cuffing his way to a decisive win over the Poughkeepsie strong boy who packs a mean wallop. This four round bout should give plenty of action, Matchmaker Stender believes.
The other bouts as listed in the 34 round program announced in the Freeman Wednesday are also expected to furnish lots of fireworks. The card is well supplied with local fighters, the favorites being Adam Unverzagt, Ambrose Jagers and Benny Segal, all of Ellenville. The latter making his debut at the last armory show fought a wonderful battle. This time he is paired with Frankie Kouhout of Kingston. Frankie is a slugger who works every minute and is picked to give Segal a real hard test.
Those wishing reserved seats may procure them at the Legion building, phone 1914.

BILLIARDS

Joe Marabelli had an easy time defeating Bob East in the city championship billiard series match at the Koenig A. C. Wednesday, 100-63. The battle lasted 25 innings. High runs were Marabelli 15, East 12. Tonight at Nick's, Andy Cherney and Charlie Burke play.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN J. COULD

(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

Most of the college coaches and leaders with whom I have discussed the matter consider the return of legalized beer a distinct boom and advantage, especially by comparison with circumstances which have gotten a trifle out of control.

It is not that these men, charged with the administration and control of athletic affairs, have the slightest idea of installing beer at the training tables or of encouraging their charges to stage a foot-race to the nearest beer-parlor after the daily workout.

The customary and desirable ban on drinking, of any kind, remain in force, but the general feeling is that an unnatural and somewhat complicated situation has been removed. "As it stands now, we won't have to send sleuths around to the speaker's tables to locate the boys off the reservation," remarked one prominent coach. "The temptations for secret indulgence will disappear. It will be all right with most of us if athletes occasionally have a bottle or two of beer, openly, so long as they know when to quit."

"Where there is no subterfuge, or necessity for it, I do not think we will have any problem at all in handling the situation. If an athlete is stale or overtrained, a glass of beer or ale will help build him up. If he is a star and in good shape, he will know enough not to over-indulge or he won't remain a star very long."

First Hand Coaching

Major Goodsell, Australian who coaches rowing at U. C. L. A., probably is the only varsity coach who gets out and coaches his eight men in his own shell. He is keeping in shape with the idea of challenging for the world's pro single sculls title again.

He held it once and lost to Ted Phelps in a match race at Long Beach last fall. He says he can tell better what his men are doing when he is out there pulling an oar himself.

Fears for Trojans

Unless Dean Cromwell digs up some stars from his junior college "farm," the Southern California track team may take a beating in the dual meets with Stanford, and perchance, in the I. C. -A. advises Paul Zimmerman.

The Trojan team is none too strong in the shot and discus, particularly the discus. Its sprinters are not as good as last year, and its broad jumpers are a bit weaker.

There are Bill Graber, Bob Van Osdel and Duncan McNaughton, Olympic stars, along with Ed Ablovich, member of the 1600-meter relay team.

Cromwell says Graber may do 14 feet, 6 inches this year, if he gets everything right some day.

Van Osdel is in the dental college, and seems bent on becoming a good dentist. As a result he hasn't practiced much this spring.

Tim Mara Urges
Boxing Bill Veto

Tim Mara, widely known sports promoter of New York city, has urged Governor Lehman to veto the O'Brien boxing bill to prevent, the promoter said, the death of prize fighting in the state.

The bill, sponsored by Senator Duncan T. O'Brien, New York Democrat, greatly increases the license fees for every one connected with the sport and raises the state tax on the gross revenues of boxing clubs from 5 to 10 per cent. It increases the fee for fighters from $5 to $100.

Along with several other measures, the O'Brien bill was introduced in the Legislature following the death of Ernie Schaaf, Boston heavyweight, after a bout with Carnera. Governor Lehman said he would consult with the State Athletic Commission before acting upon the O'Brien bill as well as the Nunan measure, which brings all amateur bouts under the State Athletic Commission.

Yellow Water Lily Food
The Klamath Indians used to utilize the seeds of the common yellow water lily for food. The squaws would go out to the lily patches in canoes to gather the seed pods. One method they used to extract the seeds from the pods was to bury the pods in holes in the ground and let them stay there until they fermented into a mucilaginous mass from which the seeds could be freed by washing. The seeds were then used as meal or parched whole.

Tagging Major League Bases

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR., (Associated Press Sports Writer.)
The Chicago White Sox, a club which did not "figure" to go anywhere at all in the American League this year, has responded to Owner Lou Comiskey's lavish outlay of cash for new playing talent by assuming a distinctly threatening attitude toward the leaders.

It still is too early to say how far the Sox will go, but the fact remains that so far they have outlived every other major league club by a wide margin and have climbed to the dizzy heights of second place. It was more or less expected that their stickwork would improve with the acquisition of Al Simmons, Mule Haas and Jimmy Dykes from the Athletics, but no one counted on the Sox getting enough pitching to make the clouting useful.

In six games the Pale Hose have dumfounded the critics who held that attitude not only by pounding out 63 hits for 35 runs but by producing several hurlers who could hold their own and win games, even when the opposition wasn't overpowered. In the opener, Eddie Durham and Joe Hering collaborated in a four-hit game; a couple of days later, Paul Gregory and Vic Fraser allowed Detroit only six hits but lost the game; Tuesday Sad Samuel Jones granted seven blows and scattered them well enough to produce a shutout, and yesterday another veteran, Ted Lyons, turned in a three hit masterpiece. Only one game so far has been lost through the failure of the mound department.

Lyons, making his second start in a comeback campaign after two bad seasons, pitched almost perfect ball and while the Sox could get only seven safeties off Dick Coffman and Sam Gray they turned back the St. Louis Browns 3 to 0. Only six Browns reached first, two on walks and one on an error, and none passed second. Meanwhile the Sox picked up three runs, bunched their blows, of which five were doubles, at the effective moments and receiving the aid of two St. Louis errors.

Dodgers Victorious.
In the only other game played yesterday, the Brooklyn Dodgers displayed some more of the smart baseball with which they have been amazing the National League to take a ten inning decision from the Boston Braves, 2 to 1. The winning run came in on a squeeze play when Al Lopez laid down a neat bunt and brought Tony Cuccinello in from third.

Ed Brandt gave the Braves their second five-hit hurling job in as many starts but the squeeze, following a walk, a sacrifice and Del Bissonette's single, and a fifth inning double by Walter Beck, Brooklyn's big recruit moundsman, which was followed by Joe Stripp's single, turned it into the second Boston defeat. Beck, chalking up his second victory, gave eight hits and fanned five.

The morning game of the Brooklyn-Boston doubleheader and the other National League contest, New York vs. Philadelphia, were rained out. Three American League games also were eradicated by bad weather.

Stars of Tennis Test Supremacy

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., April 29 (AP).—Two of the nation's "first ten" tennis stars rested in the semi-finals of the Mason and Dixon tennis tournament today while four other high ranking players battled for the right to meet them.

Frank X. Shields, tall, hard hitting New Yorker, who was ranked fifth for 1932, and Gregory S. Mangin of Newark, N. J., the national indoor title holder who was given seventh place outdoors, won their semi-final brackets in easy style yesterday. Shields overcame Marcel Rainville of Montreal, Canadian Davis cup star, 6-1, 6-4, while Mangin turned back Lester Stoecken of Los Angeles, who is rated a notch above him, 6-2, 7-5.

Today's remaining quarter final matches bring together Clifford Sutter of New Orleans, recently chosen for the Davis Cup team and seeded player of the tourney, and Berkley Bell of New York; and Sidney B. Wood, Jr., of New York, former Wimbledon champion, and J. Gilbert Hall of Orange, N. J., star, who won the north and south title at Pinehurst, is ranked the nationally, Wood fourth, Hall 14th and Bell 18th.

The pairings call for the win of the Sutter-Bell tilt to a victor between Wood and Hall play Mangin.

Sutter was the only one of the quartet to play yesterday, getting his start after two days of postponement and advanced by the default of Walter Lipman, then trounced by Philip B. Hawk of New York, 6-6.

Favorites in the women's division all reached the semi-finals with little trouble but face more serious opposition today. The lineup against Mrs. John Van Ryn, the favorite, was Mrs. Philip B. Hawk, a Baronesse Hans Levi of New York against another New York player, Florence Lehoultier.
